How do Christians show commitment to God?

The Ten Commandments

The Ten Commandments are fundamental moral principles in Judeo-Christian tradition, guiding ethical behaviour and relationships with God and others. They're important guidelines for living a good life.

You shall have no gods before me
You shall not make any idols to worship
You shall not take the Lord's name in vain
Remember and keep the Sabbath day holy Honour your father and mother
You shall not kill
You shall not commit adultery
You shall not steal
You shall not bear false witness
You shall not covet

Key Vocabulary	Definition
commandment	A rule.
commitment	Being dedicated to a cause or belief.
Communion	The service of Christian worship at which bread and wine are consecrated.
consecrate	To make or declare something as sacred for religious purposes.
covet	To want or be jealous of something that belongs to another.
Eucharist	Another name for communion
honour	Regard with great respect.
idols	An image or representation of a god used as an object of worship.
Last Supper	The last supper the Disciples ate with Jesus before his crucifixion.
prioritise	To put something first due to its importance.
Sabbath	A day of religious observance and the day of rest. (Sundays for Christians.)
values	The principles or standards of behaviour, and the judgement of what's important in life.
worship	To express respect and adoration of a god or deity.

Communion

Communion, also known as the Eucharist or the Lord's Supper, is a religious practice in Christianity. It involves the symbolic consumption of bread and wine, which represent the body and blood of Jesus Christ. Participants typically receive communion during a church service as a way to remember Jesus' sacrifice and to strengthen their spiritual connection with Him and fellow believers.

Love thy neighbour

Martin Luther King Jr. exemplified the principle of "loving thy neighbour" through his advocacy for civil rights and social justice. He promoted nonviolent resistance and preached love and understanding, even in the face of hatred and oppression.

Mother Teresa exemplified the principle of "loving thy neighbour" through her life dedicated to serving the poorest of the poor. She founded the Missionaries of Charity, an organization that provided care and support to those in need.
